LAC Session 1

ILLUMINATING LESSON PLANS: DEEP DIVING INTO LEARNING DESIGN AND ILAW FRAMEWORK THROUGH PROJECT LPT

A collaborative learning session focused on developing effective and engaging unified prototype lesson plans for the Three-Term School Calendar.

Name of LAC Facilitator/s

LAC Session is developed by Rodolf John T. Rodriguez
CID Chief

Beginning to Proficient Teachers (Teachers I-VII)

- Indicator 4.1.2: Plan, manage, and implement developmentally appropriate sequencing of teaching and learning processes.
- Indicator 4.5.2: Select, organize, develop, and use appropriate instructional materials, including ICT, to address specific learning goals.
- Indicator 7.4.2: Participate in professional networks to share knowledge and enhance practice, and develop a personal professional improvement plan.

Terminal Objective

By the end of this two-hour Learning Action Cell session, the teachers will be able to design a compliant, context-responsive lesson plan applying the four core components of the ILAW Framework (I-ntentions, L-earning Experience, A-ssessing Learning, W-ays Forward) without over-reliance on prohibited AI tools.

Enabling Objectives

A. Identify the major policy shifts from the old DLL/DLP formats to the streamlined, essential components of the ILAW Framework under DO 16, s. 2026.
B. Unpack and sequence a chosen learning competency into clear, manageable instructional objectives aligned with the Intentions (I) and Learning Experience (L) stages.
C. Formulate low-stakes formative checks and reflective next steps (Assessing Learning and Ways Forward) that minimize unnecessary administrative paperwork pressure.

Priming: Analogous Analogy

Directions: Give the analogy of the following jobs and their basic tools to work. Choose from the box the correct answer.

1. A carpenter is to _____.
2. A mariner is to _____.
3. A doctor is to _____.
4. An engineer is to _____.
5. A teacher is to _____.

a. lesson Plan	c. compass.	e. hammer
b. stethoscope	d. blueprint

Priming: Analogous Analogy

Directions: Give the analogy of the following jobs and their basic tools to work. Choose from the box the correct answer.

1. A carpenter is to hammer
2. A mariner is to compass.
3. A doctor is to stethoscope.
4. An engineer is to blueprint.
5. A teacher is to lesson plan.

Activity:

Pass the ILAW, Build the Flow

Objective: Collaboratively build a single-session lesson design step-by-step using a game structure, emphasizing flexibility and speed.

Materials Needed: Four colored index cards per group (Blue for I, Green for L, Yellow for A, Pink for W), a timer, and a copy of the target DepEd curriculum competencies.

Activity: Pass the ILAW, Build the Flow

Mechanics:
Divide the faculty into small collaborative clusters (cross-grade or subject-area partners).
Round 1 (Intentions - 3 mins): Each group picks one learning competency from the basket. On the Blue Card, they must write a single, unpacked, clean objective.

Round 2 (Learning Experience - 5 mins): Groups rotate their Blue Cards clockwise to the next table. The receiving group must rapidly design a creative, real-life "Pre-lesson hook" or coherent "Lesson Flow" on their Green Card to match the previous group's objective.

Round 3 (Assessing Learning - 4 mins): Pass the cards clockwise again. The third group writes a fast, formative assessment on the Yellow Card.

Round 4 (Ways Forward - 3 mins): Pass one final time. The fourth group determines the "Ways Forward" on the Pink Card, writing down a quick instructional remediation or adjustment strategy if half the class misses the formative check.

The Showcase: Each group presents their completed four-card sequence on the board to form a unified, collaborative lesson layout.

Analysis

1. What felt right about brainstorming just one piece of a lesson, and what felt wrong or frustrating compared to writing a full DLL/DLP alone?
2. Looking at our connected cards, do you think the ILAW framework focuses on student learning and remediation? Why or why not?

DepEd Update at a Glance

What this Order is about

DepEd Order No. 016, s. 2026 issues the new Guidelines on Lesson Planning and Learning Design.

It aims to strengthen daily lesson preparation while making lesson planning more flexible, efficient and context-responsive.

The Order reframes lesson planning as a professional, learner-centered process rather than a paperwork requirement.

Why it matters

It affects how teachers and ALS implementers prepare lessons across public schools, CLCs and recognized ALS providers.

It supports better teaching quality, meaningful learning and continuous instructional improvement.

All Others Concerned

1. The Department of Education (DepEd) issues the enclosed Guidelines on Lesson Planning and Learning Design which recognize the need to strengthen and refine the policy on daily lesson preparation to better support effective teaching and meaningful learning.

2. This Order establishes a more flexible, efficient, and context-responsive framework for lesson planning across all key stages to further improve teaching quality and learner outcomes. It reinforces DepEd's system-wide commitment to continuous instructional improvement, where teachers, alternative learning system (ALS) implementers, and instructional leaders use lesson planning, reflection, and assessment data to enhance teaching and learning practices.

3. In alignment with DepEd Order (DO) No. 009, s. 2026 or the "Guidelines on the Implementation of the Three-Term School Calendar in Basic Education," this Order repeals DO No. 42, s. 2016 or the "Policy Guidelines on Daily Lesson Preparation for the K to 12 Basic Education Program." All other related issuances or any provisions thereof inconsistent with this Order are likewise repealed, rescinded, or modified accordingly.

4. This Order shall take effect immediately upon its approval, and fifteen (15) days after its publication in the Official Gazette or a newspaper of general circulation, and filing with the Office of the National Administrative Registrar (ONAR) at the University of the Philippines Law Center (UPLC), UP Diliman, Quezon City.

DepEd Update at a Glance

Main rationale

DepEd noted that older lesson planning practices had become overly tedious and compliance-driven. While templates helped provide structure, they also sometimes limited reflective, purposeful and learner-centered planning. The new policy responds to the evolving needs and realities of Filipino learners and modern classroom contexts.

Core direction

Transform instructional planning into a dynamic, responsive and sustainable pedagogical practice. Align lesson planning with learning design principles so teachers can focus more meaningfully on teaching and learning. Promote holistic learner development and improved learning outcomes.

Who is Covered by the Policy?

Direct coverage

- Public elementary and secondary schools.
- DepEd-operated community learning centers (CLCs).
- DepEd-recognized ALS providers.
- Basic education units of state or local universities and colleges (SUCs and LUCs).

Also relevant to

- Private elementary and secondary schools, which are encouraged to adopt the guidelines in line with their own policies.
- Teachers, school heads, instructional leaders, students and parents who are affected by improved lesson delivery and support systems.

Important Dates and Legal Details

Important dates

The Order takes effect immediately upon approval, and fifteen (15) days after publication in the Official Gazette or a newspaper of general circulation and filing with ONAR.

Teachers may continue using old DLL or DLP formats only until the end of the first term of School Year 2026–2027. Full implementation of the revised lesson planning guidelines begins in the second term of SY 2026–2027.

Other legal details

The Order aligns with DepEd Order No. 009, s. 2026 on the Three-Term School Calendar in Basic Education. It repeals DO No. 42, s. 2016 and inconsistent related issuances or provisions. Immediate dissemination and strict compliance are directed.

Major Changes Teachers Should Know

What changed from the old policy?

- The policy shifts away from rigid, compliance-heavy planning practices.
- The distinction between Detailed Lesson Plan (DLP) and Daily Lesson Log (DLL) is superseded by a broader definition of “lesson plan.”
- DepEd will focus on the essential lesson plan components rather than imposing one required national template.

What remains important?

- Lesson planning still matters, but it is now viewed as a tool for better teaching, reflection and learner support. Instructional leaders are expected to coach and support, not simply check paperwork.
- Lesson plans must still show clear intentions, learning experiences, assessment and next steps.

ILAW Framework Overview

ILAW stands for Intentions, Learning Experience, Assessing Learning and Ways Forward.

I — Intentions

Learning competencies
Learning objectives

L — Learning Experience

Resources
Pre-lesson activity
Lesson flow
Integration and contextualization

A — Assessing Learning

Formative assessments
Instructional adjustments
Support for learners

W — Ways Forward

Reflective practice
Extended learning opportunities

ILAW Details: Intentions and Learning Experience

Intentions (I)

Identify the learning competencies to be targeted during the learning session.
Unpack, cluster or sequence competencies into clear, focused and manageable learning objectives.
Align objectives with learner readiness, instructional context and available learning time.

Learning Experience (L)

Select relevant and appropriate learning resources, including alternative resources for home-based learning or emergencies.
Design pre-lesson activities that activate prior knowledge and establish readiness.
Ensure lesson flow remains coherent, engaging, responsive and developmentally appropriate.
Include opportunities for integration, contextualization and real-life or community-based connections.

Source: DepEd Order No. 016, s. 2026

ILAW Details: Assessing Learning and Ways Forward

Assessing Learning (A)

Conduct formative checks throughout the lesson to monitor understanding and progress.

Use assessment results to guide immediate instructional adjustments.

Identify learners who are doing well and those who need additional support.

Ways Forward (W)

Reflect at the end of each lesson or session on the teaching experience and evidence of learning.

Plan next instructional steps such as remediation, reteaching or enrichment.

Offer extended learning opportunities beyond the classroom when needed.

Alignment of Learning Designs and Instructional Design Framework with Project LPT

The Project LPT adopted the ILAW format and applied the eight learning designs and utilized pedagogical approaches that are constructivists, inquiry-based, reflective, collaborative, and integrative as stipulated in RA 10533 and reiterated in DepEd Order 21, s. 2019.

The IDF is an instructional framework is a flexible, adaptable structure that ensures effective teaching and learning, allowing teachers to use their creativity confidently.

How the New Policy Simplifies Lesson Planning

What teachers are not required to do

- They shall not be required to include components beyond those prescribed in the framework.
- Additional documentation, excessive detail and expanded lesson planning requirements that do not directly support teaching and learning should be avoided.
- ROs, SDOs, schools and CLCs shall not require additional or expanded templates, supplementary forms or documentation beyond the simplified standards.

What schools are encouraged to do instead

- Encourage collaborative lesson planning, shared resources, digitalization and other workload-reducing practices.
- Use ILAs and learner profiles as references when planning for responsiveness to learner needs.
- Support multigrade, inclusive and IPEd-responsive planning where applicable.

For Project LPT

School heads must ensure that LPTs are downloaded and utilized for daily use.

Monitoring mechanism must be strengthened.

Printing of LPTs must utilize scratch paper for economical and efficient monitoring.

AI Use in Lesson Planning

Important limits and allowed uses

DepEd allows only declared, limited and carefully reviewed AI use. Fully AI-generated lesson plans are not allowed.

Prohibited AI Use

AI must not make core instructional decisions.

Not for defining objectives, unpacking competencies or designing the ILAW Framework.

Not for critical judgments about learner needs.

Limited AI Use

Allowed only after key instructional decisions are already made.

May help rephrase, organize or refine text.

Outputs must still be reviewed, validated and adapted by the teacher.

Guided AI Use

Acceptable for low-risk technical support tasks.

Examples: grammar and spelling checks, clarity improvement, formatting support and translation assistance.

Outputs must be carefully checked before integration.

Source: DepEd Order No. 016, s. 2026

Collaboration, Coaching and Instructional Support

Collaboration

Collaborative lesson planning is encouraged to share strategies, resources and effective practices.

LAC sessions and similar peer-learning platforms may be used as venues for collaborative planning and reflective discussion.

Shared lesson plans may be recognized as valid evidence of teacher preparation if the teachers understand and can deliver them effectively.

Instructional support

Newly hired teachers, newly assigned teachers and those needing support should receive structured guidance.

Support may include instructional coaching, collaborative planning, mentoring on Learning Design Principles and the use of lesson exemplars.

Instructional leaders should focus on developmental feedback, not mere document completeness.

Roles and Responsibilities Across Governance Levels

Central and national offices

BLD and BAE communicate the guidelines and develop technical assistance mechanisms.

NEAP, BHROD and other offices provide capacity-building on lesson planning, coaching and reflective practice.

Coordination with TEC strengthens pre-service and in-service professional development.

Regional, division and school levels

ROs monitor effects on teacher workload, instructional quality and learner experience.

SDOs orient and capacitate school and CLC personnel on formative coaching and mentoring.

School Heads and ALS Focals lead qualitative reviews, support collaboration and reduce unnecessary documentation.

At the school level

Ensure time for lesson planning by reducing unnecessary administrative burdens in line with earlier DepEd orders.

Organize participatory conferences and reflective discussions to improve planning practices.

Archive lesson plans in digital or printed formats; a three-year retention period is recommended.

Monitoring and evaluation

BLD and BAE lead monitoring and evaluation.

A policy evaluation is to be conducted every three years.

Funding will come from the Basic Education Curriculum Fund and other authorized sources.

Key Takeaways

Bottom line

Lesson planning is now simpler, more flexible and more responsive to learner needs.

The ILAW Framework is the new core structure for lesson planning.

Teachers should focus on quality instruction, meaningful assessment and reflective practice.

Fully AI-generated lesson plans are not allowed.

Transition to the revised system starts in SY 2026–2027, with full implementation in the second term.

9. To ensure quality assurance, administrative accountability, and seamless execution, the Project LPT Working Committee shall be composed of the following personnel:

2. Identify generic parts in the Learning Experience and Assessing Learning sections and actively contextualize them by rewriting the activities to fit school and community resources, traditions, and student backgrounds, if necessary.
3. Modify the Ways Forward section to reflect realistic, localized school interventions

ANNEX A
LESSON PLANNING RUBRIC

I can say that in my lesson plan...	Yes	Not Yet	Why?/ What will make it better?
Intentions are clearly stated, with appropriate learning competencies articulated.
Intentions are evident across all sections. Thus, there is coherence.
Learning experience is clear – another teacher can implement this lesson without additional explanation.
Learning experience is well-designed, with intentionally embedded Learning Design Principles.
Learning experience maximizes available opportunities for integration and contextualization.
Learning experience is inclusive, provides opportunities to support learners with disabilities, barriers, and unique contexts.
Assessment strategies are integrated throughout the session to see learners progress or if they need support.
Assessment strategies generate evidence if learning is successful.
Ways forward and described interventions are actionable, providing ways to extend or adjust learning based on reflections.

Reaction

After the LAC Session Proper

Level 1 – Reaction: After the LAC session, collect teacher feedback forms (e.g., 90% of participants agree the session was relevant).
Level 2 – Learning: Collect activities and application workshop outputs to measure learning.
Level 3 – Behavior: Use non-rated classroom observations and apply the PMCF and One-Minute Coaching technique.
Level 4 – Results: Use the Instructional Supervisory Plan to teacher performance.

One-minute coaching technique during the Management by Walking Around

Based On: Ken Blanchard's One-Minute Manager

Context: This coaching technique is designed for all MTs, HTs, school heads, and supervisors when they give their mentoring and coaching to teachers and dialog to the parents. This will be done during the MWA.
